

JAY FOX AND THE BAVARIAN SHOWTIME BAND

The Jay Fox Band resides in Fort Wayne, IN and has been touring both in and out of the U.S. for over 32 years. This group consists of Jay Fox on the MIDI accordion and Vocals, Patrice Fox on Vocals, Eric Stilabower on Percussions, and at times Jerry Farrington on lead, rhythm guitar and vocals. The musicians enjoy performing and working together. They specialize in German Festivals and Variety engagements.

The group is unique because of their ability to perform a wide variety of styles including: Polka, Waltz, Big Band, Country, Rock, Bluegrass, Latin, Ballads and even Semi-Classical. They perform at most area festivals, clubs and private events. The band has a great respect for our military both past and present. They have the Honor of performing at military bases throughout the U.S. and in 2009 played in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

The band enjoys interacting with the audience. Participation songs using wireless mics and instruments are always a part of their performance. Jay and Patrice play the Kuhglocken (Tyrolean Cow Bells) out among the audience and also involve volunteers.

This is a very high energy band which frequently receives comments from people who state how much enthusiasm the band puts out and what fun they had. The band believes that it isn't just the quality of the musicianship, or the songs that are picked, but it's just as important to have fun and involve the audience. If the band is into it, the audience will respond back. When you see this group perform, you will know they enjoy what they do. They are not your typical weekend warriors. The band has recorded five CD's. They can be contacted at 260-483-6071 or by email at jayfoxband@msn.com
